Contents of Volume 17 (1993)

NUMBER 1 JANUARY/FEBRUARY 1993

Optical fibre-based goniometer for sensing patient position and movement within a magnetic resonance scanner using chromatic modulation
P. J. Scully, R. Holmes and G. R. Jones 1

Analysis of the reproducibility and individuality of dynamic pedobarograph images
O. E. Facey, I. D. Hannah and D. Rosen 9

An ultrasonic system for diameter pulse tracking in arteries: problems and pitfalls
D. Manor, P. Dahl, M. Benthin, R. Ruzicka, K. Lindström and G. Gennser 16

Assessment of oscillometric non-invasive blood pressure monitors using the Dynatech Nevada CuffLink analyser
J. N. Amoore 25

NUMBER 2 MARCH/APRIL 1993

Lasers in medicine—a review
K. F. Gibson and W. G. Kernohan 51

Quantitative measurement of wall shear rate by pulsed
Doppler ultrasound
P. E. Hughes and T. V. How 58

Computerized measurement of ciliary beat frequency
A. Green, P. R. Austin, A. Logan, L. A. Smallman and A. B. Drake-Lee 65

NUMBER 3 MAY/JUNE 1993

Review. Clinical applications of electrical impedance tomography
A. M. Dijkstra, B. H. Brown, A. D. Leathard, N. D. Harris, D. C. Barber and D. L. Edbrooke 89

Bladder volume estimation in the elderly using a portable ultrasound-based measurement device
A. K. Topper, P. J. Holliday and G. R. Fernie 99

An electronic cryoprobe for cryosurgery using heat pipes and thermoelectric coolers: a preliminary report
A. Hamilton and J. Hu 104

A new device producing ambulatory intermittent pneumatic compression suitable for the treatment of lower limb oedema: a preliminary report
M. A. Hamzeh, R. J. Lonsdale, D. J. Pratt and B. R. Hopkinson 110

NUMBER 4 JULY/AUGUST 1993

Development of a natural degradable polymer for orthopaedic use
J. C. Knowles 129

An electromechanical breathing device for minimal particle loss while inhaling aerosols
O. A. Lindahl, B. Rudell and T. Bäcklund 138

Design and development of a biomechanical apparatus to test the integrity of the Luque orthopaedic internal bone–plate fixation system
K. Sadeghipour, R. Baren, B. A. Ortiz and D. H. Clements 141

A gas monitoring system for ethylene oxide sterilizers with constant sample flow through a microwave cavity spectrometer
Z. Zhu, C. Gibson, A. H. Samuel and I. P. Matthews 147

NUMBER 5 SEPTEMBER/OCTOBER 1993

Special Issue
Historical Aspects of Selected Scottish Initiatives in Biomedical Engineering and Physics Record of a Wellcome Research Workshop, Royal Society of Edinburgh, 19 May 1993

Preface 167

Historical/archival aspects

A remembrance of Tom Gibson (1915–1993)
A. Rodger 168

Samuel Haughton (1821–1897)
A. Rodger 168

Historical aspects of biomedical engineering: a perspective from recent work in the sociology of technology
M. Nicolson 170

Objects as evidence: the role of museum collections
A. D. C. Simpson 172

Academic/clinical/practical activities and achievements

A brief personal account of the Aberdeen story—with particular reference to SPECT and MRI
J. R. Mallard 176

Application of art, science and gumption in the care of the disabled
G. Murdoch 179

Bioengineering in Edinburgh
C. B. Meadows 182

It seemed a good idea at the time
J. C. Barbenel 183

Bioengineering at the University of Strathclyde
J. P. Paul 185

Artificial organs and biomaterials
J. M. Courtney 188

Artificial surface–blood interactions
C. D. Forbes 190

Development of prosthetic/orthotic education and training
J. Hughes 193

Discussion 197

Scottish initiatives abroad

The international development of prosthetics and orthotics
N. A. Jacobs 199

Strathclyde–Rostock cooperation
H. Klinkmann 201

Biomedical engineering in Hong Kong—the Scottish connection
J. H. Evans 202

Needs, achievements and potential

Smart instrumentation—the example of skin microcirculation
Z. F. Cui and J. C. Barbenel 204

Initiatives in the biomedical industry
I. Capperauld 206

Mass customization of prosthetic and orthotic devices
D. Jones 208

Discussion 212

Bibliography 214

Workshop participants and contributors index 218

NUMBER 6 NOVEMBER/DECEMBER 1993

Phonocardiogram signal analysis: techniques and performance comparison
M. S. Obaidat 221

Representations of ECG – late potentials in the time frequency plane
L. Khadra, H. Dickhaus and A. Lipp 228

Physiological evaluation of a newly designed lever mechanism for wheelchairs
L. H. V. van der Woude, H. E. J. Veeger, Y. de Boer and R. H. Rozendal 232
